1. The drawings are objected to because Fig. 1 should be labeled "Prior Art" .

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The claims recite a method for performing a mathematical function.

"[t]o satisfy section 101 requirements, the claim must be for a practical application of the Sec. 101 judicial exception, which can be identified in various ways:

- . The claimed invention "transforms" an article or physical object to a different state or thing.
- . The claimed invention otherwise produces a useful, concrete and tangible result,..."

See "Interim Guidelines for Examination of Patent Applications for Patent Subject Matter Eligibility" OG Date: 22 November 2005.

In order for claims to be statutory, claims must include a practical application with a concrete, useful, and tangible result. However, claims 1-11 merely disclose steps of performing mathematical function without disclosing a practical application with a concrete, useful, and tangible result, as they are pre-emptive in any application. More specifically, the result is not tangible result because it is not a real world result. Therefore, claims 1-11 are directed to non-statutory subject matter.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant's Fig. 1 (Prior Art) in view of Wiener et al '505.

Applicant's Fig. 1 (Prior Art) discloses all the claimed feature except the "based on an examination of a plurality of highest-order active bits" feature; however, the feature is old and well known in the art. For example, Wiener et al disclose a CORDIC apparatus having the claimed feature, e.g., see Abstract, lines 17-25 "...thereby vacating the most significant bit (MSB) position....the MSB is refilled and the least significant bit is vacated making room ...” or col. 2, lines 43-58. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine Wiener et al ‘s feature in Applicant’s Fig. 1, thereby making the claimed invention, because the proposed device is a method / apparatus for implementing CORDIC complex phasor rotation using a portion of data as claimed.

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Cited reference is art of interest.
